MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION

Please register at Town Hall. In case of emergency it will be easier to find you. You must obtain a permit from the Fire Chief before setting an out-of-doors fire. Please note that this includes beach fires. Phone Orleans 758-R. Contact the Recreation Committee; they may have some sport in which your children would like to participate. See index for swimming instruction.

ABOUT THE COVER

Our house painter shouldn't go in for pointing while painting, it seems, especially when an attractive miss can get him all shook up and cause him to miss and make a mess. All the well-tanned vacationist wants to know is where she can get a better view of Nauset Inlet or the National Park Service building behind her . . . or some other Eastham point of interest.

The bicyclist was painted from a combination of two models—a visitor from Louisville, Kentucky, and an Eastham resident—says Harold White, the cover's artist.

Eastham's Salt Pond in tranquil mood—an outstanding example of unexcelled natural beauty of our area, which will be preserved in our new Cape Cod National Seashore for all generations to enjoy.

Eastham—In The Heart Of The Cape Cod National Seashore

Eastham residents long have known their town is blessed with exceptional natural beauty. So have thousands of visitors. Now this justifiable pride is forever substantiated by Eastham's place in the projected Cape Cod National Seashore.

Much of Eastham's unparalleled beauty is in the heart of the eventual Cape Cod National Seashore. Just north of Eastham's town hall you first will touch the Seashore's actual boundaries as you drive along Route 6 from the Mid-Cape Highway (see map pp 22-23). At a delightful vantage point where Nauset and Schoolhouse Roads form a strategic triangle you overlook Salt Pond, its inlet, the dunes and the ocean. Here will be located the main entrance buildings to the central section, the heart, of the Seashore.

Before you reach this spot, as you travel north along Route 6 the breath-taking vista across the famous Nauset Marsh greets you. From this area in Eastham you see the distant National Park Service building, formerly the Coast Guard Station. You may see a flight of ducks or shore birds over these fabled marshes. You may see the spray of the surf if the mood of the Atlantic is tumultuous enough. All this splendor and this natural greatness that our ancestors knew will be preserved to retain its rich unspoiled atmosphere for you and for future generations.

There's Plenty Of Fishing Of All Kinds In Eastham

An Eastham skipper pilots his expectant guests out of Rock Harbor in a calm morning start for stripers.

During the summer the striped bass is king of salt water game fish in Cape Cod waters and Eastham's striper fishing is hard to beat. Surf casting all along the tides at Nauset Beach lures the experienced and the novice to try for the "big ones." And charter sport fishing boats, many skippered by Eastham men, will take you from Rock Harbor in quest of stripers offshore in the Bay.

Bluefish entice the angler too and are caught in both surf and bay in season. Flounder, tautog and a number of other good eating bottom fish make most any fishing trip from Eastham's shores something to recall happily.

Eastham's Town Cove is an excellent spot for flounder and plaice fish and trolling for striped bass here offers additional thrills. There are several boat liveries on the Cove shore so fishing can be fun for all the family.

From nearby Provincetown several sport fishing charter boats make runs for the tuna which begin moving into Cape waters in June. Generally they abound here until November, ranging in weight from about one hundred to a thousand pounds.

The fresh water ponds of Eastham, well stocked with fish, offer the angler much added sport with rod and reel. Bass, pickerel, white and yellow perch and horned pout can be taken from these waters.

No license required for salt water fishing. See Page 37 for information on fresh water fishing licenses.

SHELLFISHING

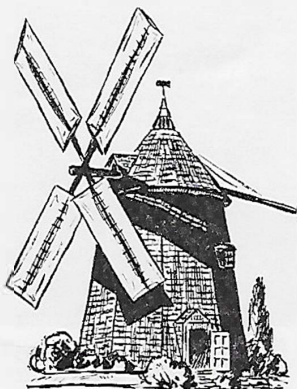

The shellfish (clams, oysters, quahogs and others) are not so plentiful now as in years gone by. But the Town of Eastham does plant seed quahogs in Salt Pond and here on a Sunday a pailfull dug at low tide will provide an interesting activity and delicious eating.

A Statement By The National Park Service

Cape Cod National Seashore

On August 7, 1961, Congress authorized establishment of Cape Cod National Seashore as part of the National Park System. Eventually the National Seashore will occupy nearly the entire shore of the Outer Cape, as well as inland stretches of dunes, woods, and marsh land.

The park will preserve the natural beauties, the wildlife habitats and the historic atmosphere of the Cape. These invaluable and fragile qualities were in danger of being lost for the very reason that they beckoned so many people here to enjoy them.

Formal establishment of the park hinges upon speed of land acquisition, which is now underway. When adequate land is acquired for administration as a park, programs and facilities will be developed for visitors. These will include campgrounds, information and interpretive centers, nature trails, swimming beaches, and campfire programs.

The National Park Service Office, in the former Coast Guard Station south of Nauset Light, will be happy to provide more information about the future of Cape Cod National Seashore.

You Can Have Much Relaxation And Fun On Eastham's Beautiful Easy-To-Reach Beaches

Eastham's renowned beaches, both bay and ocean, are never more than a few minutes away no matter where you stay here. Nauset or the Great Beach extends for over five miles along the Atlantic Ocean in Eastham. Its broad sands play host to thousands yet it is never crowded for leisurely strolls or, between dips, for relaxation to the tune of the surf's steady orchestration.

Castle building is an art the youngsters enjoy as the tide ebbs and there's beach play and healthful exercise aplenty. Nauset Beach is ideal for all bathers at low tide but parents of very young children may prefer the warmer and generally shallower bathing available at high tide at the many public beaches along Eastham's Cape Cod Bay shore.

Clear, fresh water ponds, too, offer unexcelled bathing when you prefer a change from salt and surf.

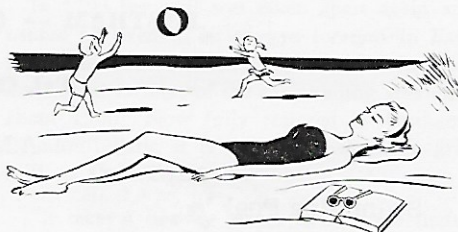

Attention Bathers! While on the Beach

DON'T

- 1—Call for help unless you need it. That is no joking matter.

The Windmill as it looks today—minus its sails.

Eastham's Historic Windmill Still Able To Grind Corn

Built sometime before 1700 at Plymouth, the old windmill was dismantled and shipped across the bay, probably in 1788 and reassembled near the end of the Cape to grind cornmeal.

In 1793 the mill was taken apart again and hauled by oxen to its present location in Eastham. Here it was used to grind meal for fishermen and farmers of the surrounding area until about 1900. Now fully restored in Eastham's Windmill Park, it is the oldest workable grist mill on Cape Cod.

"It takes a healthy breeze to turn the shaft," explains Harold R. Cole, Eastham's Town Miller, who is in attendance for visitors through the warm weather.

Of Nauset Shipwrecks

Cape Cod historian Henry Kittredge says, "If all the wrecks which have piled up on the backside of the Cape were placed bow to stern they would make a continuous wall from Monomoy to Provincetown."

To sailing ship masters in the old days Nauset Beach, the Great Beach or the "backside" of Outer Cape Cod was a dead lee shore with no haven of refuge during the northeast gales of winter. Once caught close inshore ships were driven inexorably into the shifting sandy shoals and tremendous winter surf. Many wrecks broke up within a few hours and their crews perished from exposure or drowning. The U.S. Life Saving Service maintained twelve Outer Cape Cod stations with beach patrols and surf boats and rescued many through the years; its motto was, "You have to go out, but you don't have to come back."

Today with powered vessels, navigation aids and diminished offshore traffic due to the Cape Cod Canal, the wrecks are so infrequent that all but three of the stations have been closed. The Eastham station at Coast Guard Beach is now the local headquarters of the National Park Service.

Driven ashore in December, 1892, the bark Kate Harding still had top hamper intact. Later she broke up completely.

The schooner Katie J. Barrett came ashore at Eastham in February, 1890. One of the few to survive, the hull was refloated several months later.

The New Look At The Eastham Public Library

Over the years the Eastham Public Library, now in its 84th year, has served residents, summer residents and visitors with reading material to suit all tastes. Each passing summer had seen an increasing number of summer users, both adult and children until the library was bursting at its seams with books and a dozen people at one time crowded the little building.

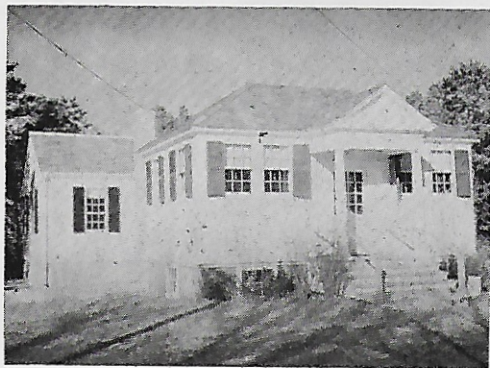

Now all that has changed since the summer of 1961. The photographs illustrate the new spacious addition; the interior and exterior views show that it retains its Cape Cod charm throughout.

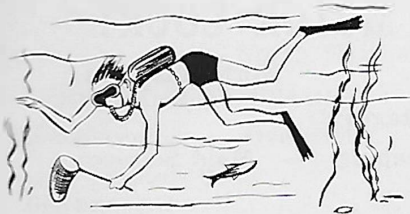

The sunshine through the little paned windows casts interesting shadows across the room. Through the large picture window there is a delightful view of Depot Pond beyond the grove of pine and locust trees.

The library contains approximately 8000 volumes of fiction, non-fiction, and children's books. There are the usual reference books, also a collection of books on Cape Cod, but some of these are for library use only. New books are added periodically. While the library is town supported, it welcomes gifts of new and usable books, memorial books, and especially standard and non-fiction children's books to replace worn out copies. These will be greatly appreciated. The more popular magazines are to be found on the reading table; there are comfortable chairs.

You are invited to use the library. One seven-day book and two others may be borrowed at a time. For Eastham taxpayers there is no charge. For other visitors there is a deposit fee of $1.00, and 50 cents is refunded when you return your books before departure. The library is open on Tuesday and Thursday from 2 to 5 p.m., 7 to 9 p.m., and on Saturday afternoons from 2 to 5 p.m. Mrs. Sadie Flint is the librarian and she will be happy to be of every possible service.

The library is located on Samoset Road, one block west of the Eastham Town Hall, a short distance beyond the Old Mill, and next to the "Chapel in the Pines". The "V. I. P. 1897" over the front entrance stands for "Village Improvement Society" which built and gave the library to the town at that time.

Target Ship In Bay

Serves A

Good Purpose

This target ship in Cape Cod Bay was a victory ship named General James E. Longstreet. Towed to its present position early in World War II, it rests on the bottom of the Bay and is used for target practice by U.S. Air Force planes stationed at nearby air fields. Light caliber ammunition as well as rockets and practice bombs are used to train the plane crews. When towed into position the ship was new but incomplete and had no engines.
